Indigita and the Institute for Studies in Finance & Banking partner up to develop new e-learning courses

Geneva, 22 September 2020 - Swiss regtech company Indigita and Geneva-based Institute for Studies in Finance & Banking (ISFB), the Swiss leader in banking and finance continuing education, have announced their partnership in the field of compliance courses for financial institutions. The collaboration will allow ISFB to expand its range of educational programmes and reinforce Indigita's position as a leading digital training provider for cross-border and compliance topics.

In the framework of this collaboration, ISFB will benefit from Indigita's unique expertise in the creation and digitisation of compliance courses for cross-border regulations, anti-money laundering and market abuse, and enrich its training offering for financial institutions and individual professionals. To Indigita, the partnership forms part of the firm's strategy to provide digital training for regulatory and compliance topics at the highest standard, as recognised by the Swiss Association for Quality "SAQ". Moreover, Indigita will gain from ISFB's 33-year experience in building courses as well as from its network of over 150 experts. The two partners will jointly develop new e-learning courses on regulatory and compliance topics in multiple languages to cover the various regions of Switzerland.

Member of the ISFB management board Frédéric Ruiz said: "Linking up with Indigita is in line with ISFB's long standing strategy of opportunistically cooperating with high quality and leading outfits in the field of learning & development. Indigita and ISFB share many common values, including a passion for excellence and a focus on client centricity through the creation of high value-add solutions. Our collaboration will be for the benefit of the Swiss banking and finance ecosystem".

Indigita Head of E-Learning Andrea Briganti said: "Today's challenging regulatory environment requires employees of financial institutions to always have the necessary and most up-to-date knowledge in order to do business in a safe and compliant manner. The partnership with ISFB will allow Indigita to enrich and diversify its range of innovative e-learning solutions, addressing a vital need across Switzerland."

Indigita and ISFB will announce a number of new, jointly developed courses in the near future.
